“ Big Jim was such a beautiful person. He had a heart of gold and he loved this community he lived in. He was such a big, strong guy, yet when it came to doing things for others he chose to step back and never let himself be in the spotlight. I remember when he wanted to go to the Chamber of Commerce to talk about his plan to start the Village Lights for Bragging Rights... he was so shy about approaching the Chamber that he wouldn't go unless I promised to be at the meeting with him- and actually sit next to him- to help him. But once he started talking and warmed up to his idea, he just took off and he infected everyone with his excitement and enthusiasm... That's how he was. Our community will never really know just how big of a man we have lost in Big Jim... a true behind the scenes hero and a true friend. His love for his family shone like a beacon- every conversation I had with him, he always made his way to mentioning his children and especially his precious grandson... and he cherished his wife more than anything on earth. Miss you, Jim- fly with the eagles you so loved.
