“ Charlie visited me everyday for the past two years in the morning. We had breakfast, talked about Woodstock 69, he enjoyed helping me unload boxes for my business. He wanted to buy one of everything. Loved watching his eyes light up with all the new things. He would call me mumma. Like I was his girl. He was the sweetest man!! When I would be stressed out and sometimes cry, he would pat me on the shoulder and tell me everything will be alright! I really really miss him terribly and I still talk to him everyday!! I love you Charlie!! Hope you are dancing in heaven!!!!❤️🥺❤️🥺🙏
