“ So very sorry to read of your lose. Death is such an enemy whenever it strikes. I have found the words at Rev 21:3,4 are a real comfort at t time such as this as it offers a hope for a time for our dead love ones. My hope is this is some comfort to you as well now and in the months ahead. And once again please except my sincere sympathy at this time of your great lose.

“ When I met you I was a cashier you would come in the same day everyday. I would always be so flustered cuz you smelled so good and handsome. It took you a month or two to finally ask for my number. I thought I was going to pass out lol.

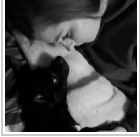

So many memories from Amanda with Emma. How proud you were of Alisha when your first grandson was born. How crazy you thought I was for tattooing Sellers on my back. Lol I would come home from work to litterally rose pedals to a bath with candles, like a dream. We had some pretty awesome times and we also went through some pretty hard times. We parted ways but both made it through it. Youre a good man and excellent father. You loved and still love those girls with everything you had. Your now their angel to help and protect them from anywhere. Until we meet again.

“ There was this one summer my daddy, me, my sister, his wife at the time and my step brothers all went to the lake to go fishing and play on the boat. We stopped near an island to jump off and go swimming, there was big rocks and stones in the water we could sit on and slide off of. I swam around the area, and noticed my foot started to itch. I lifted it out of the water and something big and black was hanging off. My brother Colten was the one swimming closest to me, I showed him my foot and asked him what it was. His reaction was "uhhhh" and it made me panic. So i started screaming to my dad who was on the boat. " Daddy, daddy something is on my foot" he looked at me and said "are you serious" when he saw i was panicked he dove right in glasses and all like superman and swam me back to the boat. I was COVERED in leaches, i think back to that day when he stood there and took them off one by one as i was screaming in fear, trying to keep me calm with cheese puffs, telling me it will be alright. He had rescued me from the leaches. He was my hero. Always has been and always will be. I love you daddy, I'll be missing you always. Rest in Paradise.
