

Terry Kay Barton

February 27, 1958 - June 16, 2026

Terry Kay (Heit) Barton, of Kalkaska, MI, passed away peacefully at home on June 16, 2026, with her two daughters and her husband by her side.

Terry was a woman of remarkable creativity, quiet strength, and a generous heart. Art lived in everything she touched — she loved drawing, painting, and bringing beauty into the world with her hands. She began sewing by making clothes and dresses for her girls, a passion that grew into a long and respected career as a professional commercial seamstress.

Even after retirement, she continued to craft handmade gifts, each one marked with her unique artistic style and deep love.

She found her greatest peace on horseback, spending countless hours on the trails with her beloved horses, Joe and Junior. Their bond was profound, and the time they shared in nature brought her comfort, joy, and freedom. Junior's passing shortly after the loss of her parents was a heartbreak she carried with grace.

Terry was preceded in death by her parents, Harold Leroy Heit and Beverly

Joyce (Stephens)

Heit.

She leaves behind her husband, Thomas Patrick Licavoli, and her daughters, Erika Marie Morley and Andria Ann (Suttle) Smith, along with Andria's husband, Donald Maurice Smith.

She was a devoted grandmother to Austin Heit, Sayre Morley, Emily Curtis, Briar Morley, and Landon Kern, along with Landon's fiancée, Arianna Hamman, all of whom she loved deeply.

Terry is also survived by her siblings: Cathy Beagle and her husband, Larry; her twin brothers, Dan Heit and his wife, Kim; and Dave Heit and his wife Becky.

She is further survived by her stepchildren and their families: Kirk Allen Licavoli, Catherine Louise Licavoli, and Thomas Leonard Licavoli.

Terry's life was defined by creativity, devotion, and the quiet, meaningful ways she showed love.

Her family will forever carry her artistry, her strength, and her spirit in their hearts.
